Hundreds Come To Murray For MSC H'coming

One of the most successful Homecoming events in years was held here Saturday at Murray State College, with the only blue not injected by the 14-7 loss at Cutchin Stadium to the Middle Tennessee Raiders.

A full day program was planned for the hundreds of graduates of the college, capped by the afternoon football game and a dance Saturday night.

An estimated 10,000 persons lined the route of the annual Homecoming parade, headed by Dr. Ralph Woods, president of Murray State College.

The many floats drew praise from the thousands of onlookers, who commented on the ingenuity and workmanship which had gone into the floats.

Two floats tied for first place honors, "Wrath for the Raiders" and "Munch a Bunch of Raiders". The first float was a realistic Viking galley "powered" by "slaves", and sponsored by Tau Kappa Epsilon.

The "Munch" float depicted a huge grider who was munching several football players, presumably from the Middle Tennessee squad. It was sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha.

Alpha Omicron Pi's float "Carousell-Brate Our Victory" won second place. The carousel was mounted by several pretty coeds, and actually went round and round. Sigma Sigma won third place with their "Cruising to Victory", a riverboat gaily decorated, and also with pretty girls.

At the half-time of the football game Saturday, Murray State's undefeated and untied football team, the team of 1963, was honored.

Twenty-two of the squad were on hand, coming from many parts of the nation to be honored at the game by the Murray Thorobred Club. Club president Frank Ryan presented each of them with a sterling silver memento.

Roy Stewart, coach of the team was present also. He is now the Athletic Director of the college. John Miller, freshman coach at the time was also present.

The 1963 Thorobreds won 9 games, were champions of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, were the highest-scoring team in the South, and were the first Kentucky Team since 1919 to finish a season, undefeated and untied.

Known as "The Wonder Team of Kentucky," the Thorobreds scored 255 points, while holding all opponents to 25 points. Only four teams managed to score against them and not one scored more than a touchdown.

Ten members of this team won places of honor on the All-SIAA team, and one, halfback Cecil Kent, the second leading scorer in the nation, made honorable mention All-American.

Victims of this team were Southern Illinois, 13-0; Union University, 20-0; Western, 20-6; Lambuth, 26-0; Middle Tennessee, 20-7; Louisville, 54-6; Tennessee Tech, 9-0; Millaps, 13-0; and Mississippi Southern, 30-0. The Middle Tennessee game was played at Murray's Homecoming exactly 30 years ago.

Coaches of the 1933 team were Roy Stewart, who is presently Thorobred Athletic Director; the late Carlisle Cutchin, for whom this stadium is named; and John Miller, presently with the Tennessee Department of Education. Mr. Stewart was head coach. Mr. Cutchin was assistant coach, and Mr. Miller was a player.

Gov. Bert T. Combs

Governor May Call Special Session

By CAROLE MARTIN

United Press International — Gov. Bert Combs announced today he was "considering very seriously" calling a special session of the General Assembly next week.

A third special legislative session this year, he said, would deal with two subjects: —Amending the applicable Kentucky statutes to provide for the election of circuit and appellate judges on a non-partisan ballot, and to provide for the adequate compensation of judges and court commissioners.

—Providing for increased highway safety by connecting some sort of moderate automobile inspection bill.

The governor noted that any increase in judicial compensation would need to take effect before Jan. 1, when newly-elected circuit judges assume office.

He said that a resolution by the Kentucky State Bar Association had proposed the following salaries for members of the bench: Court of Appeals judges, $22,500; Court of Appeals commissioners $20,000; circuit judges, $17,500.

Appellate judges now are limited by statute to an annual salary of $12,000; commissioners to $11,500; circuit court judges to $8,400, plus $2,400 for acting as special commissioners of the appellate court.

Combs said the bar association's resolution pointed out that "the compensation for our circuit judges is the lowest in the nation."

He added that it was his understanding that appellate court judges in Kentucky also received, if not the lowest salaries in the nation, one of the lowest rates of compensation.

The Nature's Palette Garden Club's symposium, "A Day With Bob Thomas," will be held Wednesday, November 20, at the Murray Woman's Club House. Shock Already Fading As The Japanese Used To Tragedy

By ARTHUR HIGBEE

United Press International TOKYO (UPI) — Japan's weekend train and mine disasters, which claimed a total of 615 lives, turned into a political issue today.

Opposition parties charged that the government was not paying enough attention to public safety. The charges hit in the final 10 days of national election campaigning, giving the race against Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda its biggest controversy thus far.

A second train accident today increased concern over safety measures but caused no serious casualty toll. Only six persons were injured. A police count today showed that the three-train crash Saturday between Tokyo and Yokohama killed 163 men, women, and children, and injured 71. A few hours earlier, an explosion in the nation's biggest coal-mine complex killed 452 miners and injured 470.

The shock was already fading, however, because Japanese are more inured to catastrophe than other nations.

Ikeda Apologizes Ikeda personally apologized to his countrymen and sent teams of experts to find out what went wrong. The chief of the government railways submitted his resignation to assume responsibility for the crash, but it was not accepted. Railways Chief Reisuke Ishida was told instead to make utmost efforts to prevent a recurrence of the disaster.

Only 36 hours after the first collision, however, two express passenger trains, carrying a total of 929 passengers, collided on another main line near the city of Yamaguchi.

One of the trains had stopped because of a faulty brake. The other rammed it from behind. But the collision was not serious.

The opposition Socialists, Democratic Socialists, and Communists issued statements charging that the government was over-concerned with promoting business and under-concerned with the safety of workers and the public.

A government program to modernize the mines is in progress, but Palbearers will be Clinton Burched, Robert Joe, Cletus Harold, and Melvin Young.

Burial will be in the Old Salem cemetery with the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home in charge of the arrangements.

TO MEET TONIGHT The Board of Directors of the Murray Kiwanis Club will meet tonight at 7:30 at the home of Maurice Christopher, Johnson Boulevard.

Mr. Christopher is the retiring lieutenant governor of District I of the Kentucky and Tennessee Kiwanis Club.

TO MEET WEDNESDAY The Kenlake Homemakers Club will meet Wednesday, November 13, at 12:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Robert Ross.

the Socialists charged it is inadequate. The explosion, however, took place in the nation's most modern mine.

Investigators blamed the train wreck on a weakened wheel on a Yokohama-bound freight train hitting a defective rail in a switch.

What happened then was catastrophe in neat split-second sequence. The wheel jumped the tracks, derailing three freight cars across two parallel tracks.

An approaching commuter train braked to avoid them. Then a Tokyo bound passenger train struck the freight cars, bounced off them, sheared the sides off one coach of the other passenger train and knifed at right angles through another coach, cutting it in half.

Most of the people in the two coaches were killed instantly.

In the mine, rescue workers dug for the third day to locate the bodies of eight miners still missing. Work was suspended in all pits until Wednesday as a sign of mourning. Miners also planned a strike on the day of the mass funeral, probably next weekend.

The mine disaster took place on the southern island of Kyushu, about 250 miles from the train wreck near Yokohama.

More Revenue Noted From TVA Systems

State and local governments received $20,376,354 in taxes or in lieu of taxes from TVA and the retail distributors of TVA power in fiscal year 1963, the agency said today.

This was 554 percent more tax revenue than they received from electric systems in 1957, when the area, was served primarily by privately-owned power systems. By comparison, state and local taxes paid by the Nation's privately-owned power companies increased 444 percent from 1957 through calendar year 1962.

The final fiscal 1963 total of nearly $20.4 million paid by TVA and the distribution systems is slightly more than TVA estimated in May, when figures on the distributors' tax payments were not yet complete. Included are more than $7.3 million paid by TVA and more than $13 million paid by the local municipal and cooperative distributors.

The total represented 7.5 percent of the power bills paid by homes, farms, business and industry served with TVA power. For surrounding privately-owned power companies, the ratio of state and local taxes to revenues ranges from about 5 to 11 percent.

TVA payments in lieu of taxes were $583,000 more than in the previous fiscal year, and tax equivalent payments by the municipal and cooperative distributors increased by more than $1,100,000.

Preliminary calculations indicate that TVA's payments for the current fiscal year (ending next June 30) will top the 1963 figure by nearly $900,444. Distributors' tax payments also have been rising steadily each year since World War II, although it is too early now to make a firm estimate of their probable increase in the current fiscal year, TVA said.

In the ultimate distribution of the fiscal 1963 payments, cities and towns received about $9.5 million, counties about $5.9 million, and state governments about $5.1 million.

The pattern of this distribution varies among the seven states where TVA power is sold, since these states have various laws on tax treatment of electric cooperatives, on the tax equivalents paid by municipal systems, and on redistribution (to local units of government) of TVA payments in lieu of taxes to the state governments.

M.T. Raiders Spoil MSC Homecoming

A Middle Tennessee eleven played the role of Homecoming spoilers here Saturday afternoon, before a crowd estimated at between 5,000 and 9,000 at Curchin Stadium.

All seats were filled for the festive event with standing room only as Middle Tennessee came from behind to win over the Thoroughbreds 14-7. Things looked good to the returning grads, students and fans, as Murray placed a sharp team on the field and with 1:38 left in the first quarter, the Thoroughbreds jumped to a 7-0 lead.

Middle came back in the second quarter however to knot the score 7-7 at the half time and picked up another score in the third quarter to win 14-7.

Middle Tennessee stopped Murray completely on the ground, and quarterback Tony Fioravanti took to the air, only to have three of his passes intercepted at critical points in the game.

The Thoroughbreds marked up 170 yards in the air as Fioravanti speared the air with passes, both short and long. One pass brought the Racer fans to their feet but it proved to be just barely out of reach of Dennis Jackson who was at the Middle ten with a clear field in front of him. It was a golden opportunity to tie the game.

Murray's single touchdown came in the first quarter after a march of 49 yards. Fioravanti passed 13 yards to Charlie Forrest for the score. Forrest booted the extra point to make it 7-0. Murray had moved to the 14 yard line with a 16 yard pass from Fioravanti to Champman, then went on to score.

With 9:43 in the half, Middle tied the score as Teddy Morris went over from four yards out. Gupion made the PAT.

In the third quarter Middle Tennessee scored again on a 40 yard pass play from Morris to George Dykes. Gupion made the point after good.

Dykes took the pass in on the Murray 15, and scampered the remaining distance unhindered. Murray threatened Middle Tennessee several times during the final quarter of the game, but each time, a pass interception blocked their chances.

Jim Pearson caught one Murray pass after the Racers had penetrated to their nine yard line. Larry Dotson robbed the Racers two times of a scoring opportunity when he took one Fioravanti pass at the Middle Tennessee eight yard line and another at the 13. Fitzgerald passed 26 times Saturday afternoon

Lakers Make It Two In A Row Friday Night

The Calloway County Lakers made it two in a row Friday night, when they moved down a tough Wingo team 68-37 after getting through a tight first half.

Generally considered the underdog in the contest, Calloway held an eight point margin, 18-10, at the end of the first quarter, and barely managed to hold the same margin at the half time, 30-22.

Cochow Howie Crittenden's Lakers caught fire in the third quarter and put on a fine offensive show, to gradually pull away from the Indians 42-28 at the end of the third stanza.

Showing their mastery of the fundamentals of the game, the Lakers showed improved ball handling, rebounding, and all-round ball playing.

Their margin stretched as the game progressed until the final horn sounded on a 68-37 victory.

Housden racked up 18 points while Crick and Miller also hit the double figures with 16 and 11 respectively.

Holloway netted 16 for the Wingo Indians.

The New Thriller by LESLEY EGAN RUN & EVIL

From the novel published by Harper & Row, Inc. Copyright © 1963 by Lesley Egan. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED? "Thalia," thought Laura Varallo, "that boy! Exasperated as she was with the precocious antics of her year-old Paul Brandon, she had to admit that he was not brash, just a friendly, well-meaning neighbor's child. But as surely as a cat would catch a mouse, the voice uninvited, asking questions and making suggestions, everything like a curious woman. It just wasn't normal."

At dinner now, Laura is listening to the events in the day of her husband's death. The police force... Glendale, Calif. police force...

CHAPTER 2

FINISHING his dinner, Vic Varallo looked at his wife across the table and said, "We got an urgent message from the Feds to every single law-enforcement office in California, that maybe the Armagast kidnapers are heading west and'll end up in our territory, kindly keep an eye out. And then—" "Oh," said Laura. "That awful thing."

"Yes." For a moment Varallo looked grim. "Not a nice bunch." The kidnapping of small Robert Armagast, back in New Jersey two months ago, had been a rather brutal affair, ending in the clean escape of the kidnapers with a couple of hundred thousand dollars, after the child's body had been found: the two-year-old child dead of starvation and exposure, tied up in a deserted mountain cabin in deep woods.

The FBI was chary of giving out information, but let it be known economically that they thought two men and a woman were involved, and that they had a couple of leads.

"What the hell," said Varallo, finishing his coffee, "do they expect us to look for? They can't give us anything but a couple of vague descriptions. One man about thirty-five, medium-sized and dark, calling himself John Newhall—which he obviously won't be now. A fatish woman about forty, dyed blond hair, known as Marion Stepp."

"Neither of them ever picked up, so no prints or nice profile shots. Just that. The other man they think is one Joseph Adam Kalman, and him they have a pedigree on—but it's not certain any of them are here, and there's a lot of California outside L.A. County."

"Yes. I never can understand a woman being mixed up in such a thing."

"As Charles said, it'd be very gratifying to catch up to those jokers, quite aside from the nice publicity we'd get, but pretty farfetched that they're anywhere here. . . . And then the lead on the vandal case came in—reason I was late. I was a hell of a lot better off riding a squad car. Regular hours."

DURING the next couple of weeks, various people were thinking various thoughts about the Brandon boy. James Keith, who owned the almost-new Spanish stucco home around the corner from Hillcrest on Carmen Drive, thought about Paul Brandon in something like panic, not unmixed with hatred.

That damned nosy kid! Hadn't thought there was a soul in hearing, and then the doorbell, just as he put the phone down, and that damned kid. He wasn't sure what he could or should do about him.

Listen, he said to himself, did the kid even understand? He sort of looked as if he had. But he hadn't said anything, not really. Not to him, thought Keith. But, he went on thinking, sweating profusely at the mere idea, for all he knew the kid might be spouting off all over the neighborhood.

If Alice ever found out—Next time he saw the kid—Got to do something, thought Keith.

Steve Morehouse was also thinking vengeful—and scared—thoughts about Paul Brandon. He'd threatened to give him the beating of his young life if he told anybody, but he wasn't sure he'd really scared him. A damn funny kid, that Paul.

Steve went hot and cold at once when he imagined how it'd be. Mother and Dad ever finding out. It just couldn't happen—mustn't happen! And that damned kid knowing—Steve felt as if he'd got into one of those mazes the psychologists put rats in. Why the hell he'd ever, in the first place—But he was eighteen, not a baby, was his own business—Only if they ever got to hear about it!

I could kill that damn sneaky kid, he thought in panic.

William Starke was also feeling jittery about the Brandon boy. Damn little nosy kid, he thought, with panic fluttering his whirling wild wings all around her. If Ken ever found out—And a kid. Only ten years old. You couldn't count on a kid, they didn't have good sense.

Sure, sure, so he looks up all friendly and sympathetic and says, "Why, no, Mrs. Starke, I won't tell anybody if you wouldn't like it. Honest I won't, you don't need to be scared."

A kid. Forget all about that by next day, come out with it to somebody like Ellen Knox or Mabel Anderson, anybody—he got around, that one did—and everybody knowing, so Ken knowing. . . .

If he found out again. . . . Just thinking about it unnerved her, and she had to go out to the kitchen, get down his bottle of whiskey and swallow some. She nearly gagged, choking it down; she hated the taste of the stuff, she didn't like any of it, that wasn't her trouble. But in a minute, when it hit her, she began to feel more optimistic.

Maybe he'd forgotten all about it.

But she knew he hadn't. That sneaky kid. So damn interested in everybody, in finding out things about everybody. Bad as a gossip old maid.

Ken—Last time, last year, he'd said he'd stop letting her have even housekeeping money. Or maybe leave her altogether, if it happened again. . . .

All-In-One-Pan Dinners

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

IF YOU'RE the type of woman who says she wouldn't mind doing dishes if it weren't for all the pots and pans, rejoice! Relief is at hand in the form of a handsome new small appliance.

It's a no-stick electric pan, but a very special one. Plug the control into the pan and it will fry, bake, stew or simmer foods. Plug the control into the pan lid, which is equipped with a removable heating unit, and it will broil or brown.

But the big beauty of this versatile kitchen newcomer is the fact that you can cook an entire dinner in it. To prove the point, today's recipes are for two all-in-one pan meals.

Cooked With Ham

Sweet potatoes and asparagus are cooked right along with broiled ham for one dinner, and they're all the better for it because the ham adds subtle seasoning to the vegetables.

For Eye Appeal

Colorful peaches, filled with cranberry sauce, are not only eye-appealing but also bring a taste of tartness to the meal.

The second suggestion fills the electric pan with pork chops, potatoes and apples. The apples, a favorite accompaniment for pork, are raisin-filled for a novel touch. Here are the recipes:

BROILED HAM STEAK

DINNER

1 (No. 2) can asparagus
1 (1 lb. 1 oz.) can whole small sweet potatoes
2 tsp. melted butter
1 center-cut ham steak, 1 in. thick
4 canned peach halves
4 tsp. cranberry sauce
Garnishes

Arrange asparagus and sweet potatoes in fry pan. Brush with melted butter.

Place broiling rack over vegetables in high position. Score outside edges of ham steak to prevent curling. Place on broiling rack. Cover with broiler lid.

Set control at 400°F. Broil until ham is browned on one side (about 8 min.). Turn.

Add peaches filled with cranberry sauce. Place around ham. Continue broiling until second side is brown.

Garnish around vegetables with toasted coconut, slivered almonds, walnuts, kumquats, chopped maraschino cherries or sour cream.

Serves 2.

PORK CHOP DINNER

4 med. sized Irish potatoes

Westinghouse HAM STEAK and cranberry-filled peach halves will cook with potatoes and asparagus for a tempting one-pan menu.

1 onion, chopped
1/2 c. bell pepper, chopped
4 lean center-cut smoked pork chops
1 1/2 c. milk
Salt to taste
Pepper to taste
1/4 tsp. savory
1/4 tsp. thyme
1/4 tsp. celery salt
2 apples, halved and cored
1/2 c. raisins
1 tsp. brown sugar

Pure and slice potatoes 1/4 in. thick. Place in fry pan with onion and bell pepper (no fat). Turn control to 250°F. Brown, turning frequently, for about 10 min. Push potatoes and pepper aside. Brown chops on both sides. Remove.

Spread potatoes and pepper evenly over pan. Gradually add milk and seasonings. Top with chops. Reduce temperature to 200°F. Place broiler rack in high position above chops.

Mix raisins and sugar. Stuff apples. Place on rack. Bake at 200°F. for 45 min. Serves 2.

Dear Abby . . .

THE SIGNALS ARE CROSSED!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our mother remarried two years ago. My brother, my sister and I are all in the teen-age group and we get quite a few telephone calls. Well, here is the problem. Our last name is Henderson, but our mother changed her name to Lupowitz when she married again. Our stepfather is a very nice man, but he wants us to answer the telephone, "Lupowitz's residence." When we do, the other person says, "Sorry, I've got the wrong number," and hangs up. Don't you think we should be able to answer the telephone, "Henderson's residence?"

MISSING CALLS
DEAR MISSING: Ask your stepfather if you can't just say "Hello" and not make a Federal case out of it.

DEAR ABBY: Is there such a thing as a person being able to drive another person out of her mind? If there is, I think that is what happens to me. I have an aunt who takes pleasure in saying things that hurt me. Like when I had my second child—it was another girl. She marched into my hospital room and said, "Oh, I wish you had had a boy for your husband. He looks sooooo disappointed."

On another occasion, when she saw my daughter all dressed up in her Sunday best, she remarked, "Such a pretty dress. Pity the child is so fat she doesn't look good in anything!" That woman has hurt me deeper than anyone I've ever known, and I've never done a thing to deserve it. My husband says, "Pay no attention to her—she's ignorant!" How can you get along with a person like that? She lives near me and visits often.

SICK AT HEART
DEAR SICK: If your aunt were only ignorant, you could forgive her. She's vicious. Why try to get along with her? Try getting along WITHOUT her. You'll live longer.

DEAR ABBY: My husband asked me what I wanted for my twelfth wedding anniversary and I said, "A divorce." I know it is out of the question because of my religion, but I really would rather be alone with the kids than living like this. I am 29 and we have six kids, which I have had to raise practically by myself. I am tired of covering up for my husband when he is late don't speak.
